(3) Where, before trial, or at any stage of a trial, the court is of opinion that the postponement of the trial of a person accused is expedient as a consequence of the exercise of a power of the court under this Act to amend an indictment or to order a separate trial of a count, the court shall make such order as appears necessary.

(3) The like proceedings may be taken, so far as they are applicable, where any question of law arises on the arraignment of any person, or as to the verdict, or judgment given, or to be given, thereon.

(3) Where, by any section of this Act, an offender is made liable to a fine of any fixed amount, the court may nevertheless inflict a fine of less amount.

Additional sentences on second or third convictions

443. In every case where, on the conviction of a person of an offence punishable under this Act, it is made to appear to the Judge that the offender has been previously convicted of, and sentenced for, an indictable offence, under this or any former Act, such Judge may sentence him to a term of punishment, in addition to that prescribed for the offence of which he then stands convicted.

Such additional punishment shall be—

Outstanding charges may be taken into account in passing sentence

448. (1) Where a person is convicted of an offence, not being an offence punishable by imprisonment for life, and the Court is satisfied that—

- (b) a copy of that document has been furnished to the person so convicted; and
- (c) in all the circumstances of the case it is proper to do so, the Court may, with the consent of the prosecutor and before passing sentence on the person for the offence of which he is convicted, ask the person whether he admits his guilt in respect of all or any of the offences specified in the list and wishes those offences to be taken into account in passing sentence upon him.

(2) Where a person referred to in sub-section (1) asks the Court to take into account any offence in passing sentence for the offence of which he has been convicted, the Court may take that first-mentioned offence into account in passing sentence.

(3) The Court shall not take into account under this section any indictable offence that it would not have jurisdiction to try even if the defendant consented to the Court hearing and determining proceedings for the offence or the prosecutor requested the Court to hear and determine those proceedings.

(4) Where the Court decides to take an offence into account under sub-section (2), the sentence passed by the Court upon the person shall not exceed the maximum sentence that may be passed in respect of the offence of which the person is convicted.

(5) The Court shall certify upon the document referred to in sub-section (1) the offences (if any) that have been taken into account in passing sentence on the person to whom the document relates for an offence of which that person is convicted, and proceedings or further proceedings shall not be taken against that person in respect of any offence so certified unless his conviction is quashed or set aside.

(6) An admission of guilt made by a person under this section in respect of an offence shall not be admissible in evidence in any proceedings or further proceedings taken against that person in respect of that offence.

(7) Where, under this section, an offence is taken into account in passing sentence on a person in respect of another offence of which he is convicted, the person shall not, by reason of the first-mentioned offence being so taken into account, be regarded, for any purpose as having been convicted of that first-mentioned offence.

(8) Where, under this section, an offence is taken into account in passing sentence on a person in relation to another offence of which he is convicted—

- (b) evidence may be given of the fact that the first-mentioned offence was so taken into account in, or in relation to, any criminal proceedings where evidence may lawfully be given of the fact that the person was convicted of the second-mentioned offence.

(9) For the purposes of sub-section (8), the fact that an offence was taken into account in passing sentence on a person in respect of another offence of which he is convicted may be proved in the same manner as the conviction of the person may be proved.

Alienation void

(2) Every alienation of the offender's property or any part thereof, executed, or made, by him or any person by his direction, after the commission of his offence and within twelve months before his conviction, shall, as against every such writ be absolutely void:

Disabilities of offence

466. After the conviction of an offender for any offence, until he has endured the punishment to which he was sentenced, or the punishment, if any, substituted for the same, or the unremitting portion of such punishment, or has received a free pardon for his offence, he shall be incapable of holding, or being elected or appointed to any office, or of exercising any electoral or municipal franchise.

Effect of reversing judgment in such cases

468. Upon the avoidance or vacating of the conviction of any such person, or reversal of the judgment against him, the provisions of the two last preceding sections, and of sections four hundred and thirty-seven and four hundred and fifty-seven, of this Act shall, with respect to such person, determine, and every order made for the payment of money out of his property shall become of no effect, and he shall be restored to all that he may have lost thereby.

Proceedings when question reserved

470. (1) The Judge by whom any question of law is reserved under the provisions of this Act shall, as soon as practicable, state a Case setting forth the same, with the facts and circumstances out of which such question arose, and shall transmit such Case to the Judges of the Supreme Court who shall determine the question, and may affirm, amend, or reverse the judgment given, or avoid or arrest the same, or may order an entry to be made on the record that the person convicted ought not to have been convicted, or may make such other order as justice requires:

Provided that no conviction, or judgment thereon, shall be reversed, arrested, or avoided, on any Case so stated, unless for some substantial wrong, or other miscarriage of justice.

Certificate of affirmation or reversal

(4) Every such determination and order shall be certified, under the hand of the Prothonotary, to the proper officer of the Court in which the conviction took place, who shall enter the same on the record, and if the person convicted is in custody, a certificate shall be transmitted to the gaoler having such custody, which certificate shall be a sufficient warrant for the execution of the judgment, if against the convicted person, or for his discharge from imprisonment, if the judgment has been reversed, avoided, or arrested.

(5) Such judgment shall be executed, or the person forthwith discharged, or his recognizance, if on bail, be vacated accordingly.

What not sufficient to stay or reverse judgment

472. (1) No judgment after verdict, in any case, shall be stayed or reversed for want of a similiter, nor by reason that the jury process was awarded to a wrong officer, nor for any misnomer, or misdescription, of the officer returning such process, or of any juror, nor because any person served upon the jury who was not returned as a juror.

(2) Nor shall any verdict be affected, because of the jury not having been instructed that the accused might, on the evidence, be convicted of a less offence than the one charged.

(3) Where the offence charged is created by statute, or subjected to a greater degree of punishment by any statute, the indictment shall after verdict be sufficient, if it described the offence in the words of the statute.

Pronouncing proper judgment

473. No judgment shall be reversed, or avoided, for any error in law in the sentence imposed, but it shall be competent for the Judges of the Supreme Court, in case of any such error, either to pronounce such judgment and sentence as is authorised by law, or to remit the record to the Court whence it came, in order that such Court may pronounce such judgment and sentence as is authorised by law.

Attendance of witnesses, &c.

(4) Every deposition taken under this section shall be stated in the commencement to have been so taken, and in reference to what case, and in pursuance of whose direction, mentioning the date thereof, and shall be transmitted by the Magistrate, before whom the same was taken, as soon as shall be practicable, to the Governor-General if the inquiry was directed by him, or to the Judge directing the inquiry, and the matter shall thereafter be disposed of, as to the Governor-General, on the report of such Judge, or otherwise, shall appear to be just.

enter into a recognizance, with or without a surety or sureties, to be of good behaviour for a term which shall not be less than twelve months or more than three years, and may direct that, in default of entering into the recognizance, the offender be imprisoned, or further imprisoned, for a period not exceeding three months with either hard labour or light labour, unless the recognizance is sooner entered into, but so that the total term of the imprisonment and further imprisonment shall not together exceed twelve months.

Damages and compensation

(3) Where a person is convicted of an offence by a court of summary jurisdiction, the court may, at the time of the conviction, or at any time thereafter upon notice given to the offender, direct that a sum not exceeding $300 be paid to any person aggrieved by way of compensation for injury or loss sustained by reason of the commission of the offence.

(4) Any sum so directed to be paid shall be paid by the offender to the Clerk of the Court, to be paid by him to the person aggrieved.

(5) A direction under this section shall be deemed to be a conviction or order whereby a sum of money is adjudged to be paid within the meaning of the Court of Petty Sessions Ordinance 1930-1951.

Application of forfeitures and penalties

555. Every sum forfeited for the amount of any injury shall be assessed by the convicting Magistrate, and paid to the party aggrieved, except where he is unknown, in which case such sum shall be applied in the same manner as a penalty.

Every sum imposed as a penalty by a Magistrate, whether in addition to such amount, or otherwise, shall be applied as directed by the Acts in force for the time being providing for the application of penalties:

Provided that, where several persons have joined in the commission of the same offence, and on conviction are severally adjudged to forfeit a sum equivalent to the amount of the injury done, no greater sum shall be paid to the party aggrieved than such amount, and the remaining sum or sums forfeited shall be applied in the same manner as any penalty imposed by a Magistrate is applied.

Summary conviction a bar to further proceedings

556. Where any person, summarily convicted under this Act, pays the sum or sums adjudged to be paid, together with costs, or receives a remission thereof from the Crown, or suffers the imprisonment provided for non-payment thereof, or the imprisonment adjudged in the first instance, or is discharged from his conviction by the Magistrate under section five hundred and fifty-two of this Act, he shall not be liable to any other proceeding for the same cause.

PART XV*CONDITIONAL RELEASE OF OFFENDERS*Conditional release of offenders without proceeding to conviction*556A. (1) Where—

- (a) a person is charged before the Court of Petty Sessions with an offence against a law of the Territory; and
- (b) the Court is satisfied that the charge is proved but is of opinion, having regard to—
  - (i) the character, antecedents, age, health or mental condition of the person;
  - (ii) the extent, if any, to which the offence is of a trivial nature; or
  - (iii) the extent, if any, to which the offence was committed under extenuating circumstances, that it is inexpedient to inflict any punishment, or to inflict any punishment other than a nominal punishment, or that it is expedient to release the person on probation, the Court may dismiss the charge or, without proceeding to conviction, by order, direct that the person be discharged upon his giving security, with or without sureties, by recognizance or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the Court, that—

- (c) he will be of good behaviour for such period, not exceeding three years, as the Court specifies in the order; and
- (d) he will, during the period so specified, comply with such conditions (if any) as the Court thinks fit to specify in the order, which conditions may include—
  - (i) the condition that the offender will, during the period so specified, be subject to the supervision on probation under a person, for the time being, appointed in accordance with the order; and
  - (ii) the condition that the offender will obey all reasonable directions of a person so appointed;

(2) Where a person has been discharged in pursuance of an order made under the last preceding sub-section upon the condition that he will be of good behaviour for a period specified in the order (in this section referred to as “the period of good behaviour”) and information is laid before a magistrate, whether before or after the expiration of the period of good behaviour, alleging that the person has, during the period of good behaviour—

- (a) failed to be of good behaviour; or
- (b) failed to comply with a condition specified in the order in accordance with paragraph (d) of the last preceding sub-section, the magistrate may issue a summons directing the person to appear before the Court of Petty Sessions at a time specified in the summons and show cause why he should not be dealt with by that Court under this section or, if the information is laid on oath, may issue a warrant for the arrest of the person and for his being brought before the Court of Petty Sessions to be dealt with under this section.

(3) Where a person who has been discharged by an order made under sub-section (1) of this section appears before the Court of Petty Sessions on summons or warrant issued under the last preceding sub-section, the Court may, if it is satisfied that the person has, during the period of good behaviour—

- (a) failed to be of good behaviour; or
- (b) failed to comply with a condition specified in that order in accordance with paragraph (d) of sub-section (1) of this section, impose on the person any penalty which the Court would, if the person had then and there been convicted of the offence with which he was originally charged, be empowered to impose or make any order (including an order under sub-section (1) of this section or an order under sub-section (1) of the next succeeding section) which the Court would, if he had then and there been convicted of the offence of which he was originally charged, be empowered to make.

(4) Where a recognizance that was entered into in accordance with an order made under sub-section (1) of this section is varied under section five hundred and fifty-six D of the Crimes Act, a corresponding variation shall be deemed to have been made in the terms of that order, and the last two preceding sub-sections apply to and in relation to that order—

- (a) in a case where the period specified in the order in accordance with paragraph (c) of sub-section (1) of this section is to be deemed to have been varied—as if references in the last two preceding sub-sections to that period were read as references to that period as it is to be deemed to have been varied; and
- (b) in a case where the conditions specified in the order in accordance with paragraph (d) of sub-section (1) of this section are to be deemed to have been varied (whether by the alteration of such a condition or the addition of a further condition)—as if references in the last two preceding sub-sections to a condition so specified were read as references to a condition included in those conditions as they are to be deemed to have been varied.

(5) Where a person is dealt with by the Court of Petty Sessions under sub-section (3) of this section, the Court may, in addition to the imposition of a penalty on the person or to the making of an order against him, order that any recognizance given by him or by a surety for him shall be estreated and that any other security given by or in respect of him shall be enforced.

Conditional release of offenders

556B. (1) Subject to this section, where a person is convicted of an offence against the law of the Territory, the Court by which he is convicted may, if it thinks fit, by order—

- (a) release the person without passing sentence upon him upon his giving security, with or without sureties, by recognizance or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the Court that—
  - (i) he will be of good behaviour for such period as the Court specifies in the order;
  - (ii) he will, during the period so specified, comply with such conditions (if any) as the Court thinks fit to specify in the order, which conditions may include—
    - (A) the condition that the offender will, during the period so specified, be subject to the supervision on probation under a person, for the time being appointed in accordance with the order; and
    - (B) the condition that the offender will obey all reasonable directions of a person so appointed; and
  - (iii) he will pay to the Commonwealth such penalty if any (being a penalty not exceeding the prescribed penalty) as the Court specifies in the order on or before a date specified in the order or by specified instalments as provided in the order; or
- (b) sentence the person to a term of imprisonment but direct that the person be released, upon his giving a like security to that referred to in the last preceding paragraph, either forthwith or after he has served a specified part of the sentence imposed upon him.

(2) Where a person is convicted of an offence in respect of which a fine might be imposed on the person instead of imprisonment, the last preceding sub-section does not authorize the court by which he is convicted, when directing that the person be released as provided in paragraph (a) of that sub-section, to require the person to give security for the payment of a penalty exceeding the maximum amount of the fine that might be so imposed.

(3) Sub-section (1) of this section does not authorize the Court of Petty Sessions when directing that a person be released as provided in paragraph (a) of that sub-section, to require the person to give security for the payment of a penalty where the offence of which the person has been convicted is an offence in respect of which the Court is empowered to sentence the person to imprisonment but the maximum term of imprisonment to which the court may sentence the person is less than six months.

(4) Sub-section (1) of this section does not authorize a court, when directing that the person be released as provided in paragraph (b) of that sub-section, to require the person to give security for the payment of a penalty.

(5) Where a court releases a person under paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of this section upon his giving security for the payment of a penalty, the provisions of section four of the Fines and Penalties Act, 1901, of the State of New South Wales, in its application in the Territory, do not apply to or in relation to the penalty so required to be paid.

(6) Where a court makes an order for the release of a person upon his giving security for the payment of a penalty, the Court shall specify in the order the person to whom and the place at which the penalty, or each instalment of the penalty, as the case may be, is to be paid.

(7) For the purpose of sub-paragraph (iii) of paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of this section, the prescribed penalty is, subject to sub-section (2) of this section—

- (a) if the court by which the order is made is the Supreme Court—Two thousand dollars; or
- (b) in any other case—Five hundred dollars.

Failure to comply with condition of recognizance or release

556C. (1) Where a person has been released in pursuance of an order made under the last preceding section upon the condition that he will be of good behaviour for a period specified in the order in accordance with sub-paragraph (i) of paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of that section (in this section referred to as “the period of good behaviour”) and information is laid before a magistrate, whether before or after the expiration of the period of good behaviour, alleging that—

- (a) the person has failed during the period of good behaviour to comply with a condition specified in the order in accordance with sub-paragraph (ii) of paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of the last preceding section;
- (b) the person has failed to pay, as provided in the order, the penalty or an instalment of the penalty for the payment of which he has given security; or
- (c) the person has been convicted, whether within or outside the Territory, of an offence committed during the period of good behaviour,

the magistrate may issue a summons directing the person to appear before the court by which he was so released at a time specified in the summons and show cause why he should not be dealt with by that court under this section or, if the information is laid on oath, may issue a warrant for the arrest of the person and for his being brought before the court by which he was so released to be dealt with under this section.

(2) Sections twenty-eight and twenty-nine of the Court of Petty Sessions Ordinance 1930-1968 apply to and in relation to a summons or information under the last preceding sub-section.

(3) Where a person is arrested by virtue of a warrant under sub-section (1) of this section that requires him to be brought before the Supreme Court and the Supreme Court is not sitting at the time of his arrest, the person shall be brought before a magistrate who may admit the person to bail on such recognizance as the magistrate thinks fit on condition that the person appears before the Supreme Court at such time and place as the magistrate specifies to be dealt with by the Supreme Court under this section or may direct that he be kept in such custody as the magistrate directs until he can be brought before the Supreme Court to be so dealt with.

(4) Where a person who has been released in pursuance of an order made under the last preceding section appears before the court on summons or warrant issued under sub-section (1) of this section or as a result of having been committed to be dealt with by the court under the last preceding sub-section, the court, if it is satisfied that—

- (a) the person has failed during the period of good behaviour to comply with a condition specified in the order in accordance with sub-paragraph (ii) of paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of the last preceding section;
- (b) the person has failed to pay, as provided in the order, the penalty or an instalment of the penalty for the payment of which he has given security; or
- (c) the person has been convicted, whether within or outside the Territory, of an offence committed during the period of good behaviour,

may—

- (d) in a case where the person was released without sentence having been passed on him—impose on the person any penalty which the Court would, if the person had then and there been convicted of the offence with which he was originally charged, be empowered to impose or make any order (including an order under sub-section (1) of the last preceding section) which the Court would, if he had then and there been convicted of the offence of which he was originally charged, be empowered to make; or
- (e) in a case where the person having been sentenced, was released forthwith or after he had served a specified part of the sentence imposed on him—commit the person to prison to undergo imprisonment for such term, being a term not exceeding the sentence or the balance of that sentence, as the case requires, or make any order (including an order under sub-section (1) of the last preceding section) which the Court would, if he had then and there been sentenced for the offence or which he was originally charged, be empowered to make.

(5) Where the court commits to prison a person who had served part of his sentence, the order for his release from prison shall, if the period of good behaviour has not elapsed, be deemed to have been revoked.

(6) Where a person who has been released under sub-section (1) of the last preceding section is convicted by the Supreme Court of an offence committed during the period of good behaviour, the Supreme Court may, upon convicting the person and in addition to dealing with the person for the offence of which he is convicted, deal with the person in like manner as it or the Court of Petty Sessions, as the case may be, could deal with the person if he were before whichever of those courts is the appropriate court in pursuance of a summons or warrant issued under sub-section (1) of this section.

(7) Where a person who has been released under sub-section (1) of the last preceding section is convicted by the Court of Petty Sessions of an offence committed during the period of good behaviour, the Court of Petty Sessions may, upon convicting the person and in addition to dealing with the person for the offence of which he is convicted—

- (a) if the person had been so released by an order of the Supreme Court—commit him to be dealt with by the Supreme Court under this section and then deal with him in like manner as a magistrate may deal with a person brought before him under sub-section (3) of this section; or
- (b) if the person had been so released by order of the Court of Petty Sessions—deal with the person in like manner as it could deal with the person if he were before the Court of Petty Sessions in pursuance of a summons or warrant issued under sub-section (1) of this section.

(8) Where a person is dealt with by the court under this section, the court may, in addition to the imposition of a penalty or to so dealing with him, but subject to the next succeeding sub-section, order that any recognizance given by him or by a surety for him shall be estreated and that any other security given by or in respect of him shall be enforced.

(9) Where a person who has been released under sub-section (1) of the last preceding section upon giving security for the payment of a penalty is dealt with by the Court under this section, the person and any surety—

- (a) ceases to be liable to pay any part of the penalty that remains unpaid; and
- (b) is not entitled to recover any part of the penalty that has already been paid.

(10) Where a recognizance that was entered into in accordance with an order made under sub-section (1) of the last preceding section is varied under the next succeeding section, a corresponding variation shall be deemed to have been made in the terms of that order, and the preceding sub-sections of this section apply to and in relation to that order—

- (a) in a case where the period specified in the order in accordance with sub-paragraph (i) of paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of the last preceding section is to be deemed to have been varied—as if references in those sub-sections to that period were read as references to that period as it is to be deemed to have been varied;

- (b) in a case where the conditions specified in the order in accordance with sub-paragraph (ii) of paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of the last preceding section are to be deemed to have been varied (whether by the alteration of such a condition or the addition of a further condition)—as if references in the preceding sub-sections of this section to a condition so specified were read as references to a condition included in those conditions as they are to be deemed to have been varied; and
- (c) in a case where the provisions of the order with respect to the amount of the penalty, or the manner in which the penalty or the instalments of the penalty are to be paid have been varied or the amount of each instalment of the penalty has been varied—as if references in the preceding sub-sections of this section to failure to pay, as provided in the order, the penalty or an instalment of the penalty were read as references to failure to pay, as provided in the order as it is to be deemed to have been varied, the penalty or an instalment of the penalty.

Power to discharge or vary conditions of recognizance

556D. (1) Where a person has given a recognizance under section five hundred and fifty-six A or five hundred and fifty-six B of the Crimes Act, the court before which the person is bound by his recognizance may—

- (a) upon application by an authorized person, the person who has given the recognizance or his surety; and
- (b) upon being satisfied that the conduct of the person bound by the recognizance has been such as to make it unnecessary that he should remain bound by the recognizance, discharge the recognizance and any surety given in respect of the recognizance.

(2) Where a person has given a recognizance under section five hundred and fifty-six A or five hundred and fifty-six B of the Crimes Act, an authorized person, the person who has given the recognizance or his surety may apply to the Court before which the person is bound by the recognizance for a variation of the terms of the recognizance including a reduction of the amount of penalty that is to be paid by the person who has given the recognizance or a variation of the manner in which the penalty or the instalments of penalty are to be paid by that person.

(3) Upon application being made to a Court under the last preceding sub-section, the Court may, if satisfied that notice as required by sub-section (5) or (6) of this section has been given and upon hearing the applicant and any person to whom notice has been so given, vary, if it thinks fit to do so, the terms of the recognizance in all or any of the following ways, that is to say, by—

- (a) extending or reducing the duration of the recognizance;
- (b) altering the conditions of the recognizance;
- (c) inserting additional conditions in the recognizance;

- (d) reducing the amount of the penalty that is to be paid by the person; and
- (e) altering the manner in which the penalty or the instalments of penalty are to be paid.

(4) A court shall not extend the duration of a recognizance given by a person under section five hundred and fifty-six A of this Act beyond the period of three years from the date of the order under that section discharging the person.

(5) Where an application is made under sub-section (1) or (2) of this section by an authorized person, the authorized person shall cause notice of the application and of the time and place fixed for the hearing of the application to be served on the person who has given the recognizance and, if that person has a surety in respect of the recognizance, on the surety.

(6) Where an application is made under sub-section (1) or (2) of this section by a person who has given a recognizance or by his surety, the person making the application shall cause notice of the application, and of the time and place fixed for the hearing of the application, to be served on the Deputy Crown Solicitor, Australian Capital Territory, and—

- (a) if the application is made by a surety—on the person who has given the recognizance; or
- (b) if the application is made by the person who has given the recognizance and that person has a surety—on his surety.

(7) Where notice of an application is served on a surety under either of the last two preceding sub-sections, the surety may appear on the hearing or further hearing of the application and show cause before the court why he should not continue to be bound by the terms of the recognizance.

(8) Where a court varies the terms of a recognizance, a person who is a surety in respect of the recognizance continues to be bound by the recognizance as so varied except that—

- (a) if the recognizance is varied by extending its duration—he is not bound after the expiration of the period for which he had agreed to be bound when he entered into the recognizance;
- (b) if the recognizance is varied by altering a condition—he is not bound by that condition as altered; and
- (c) if the recognizance is altered by the addition of a condition—he is not bound by the additional condition, unless he agrees to be bound by the recognizance as so varied.

(9) Where the court varies a recognizance by altering a condition of the recognizance, the court shall direct the extent, if any, to which a surety in respect of the recognizance is to continue to be bound by the condition as it existed before the alteration and the condition as it so existed shall be deemed, after the variation of the recognizance, to bind the surety to that extent but not otherwise.

(10) In this section—

- (a) “authorized person” means the Attorney-General or a person appointed under section fifty-three of the Australian Capital Territory Supreme Court Act 1933-1968 to prosecute indictable offences triable before the Supreme Court of the Australian Capital Territory; and
- (b) references to a variation of the manner in which the instalments of penalty are to be paid by a person shall be read as including references to a variation of the amount of any instalments of the penalty.

Recovery of amounts where recognizances estreated

556E. (1) Where the Supreme Court has, under sub-section (8) of section five hundred and fifty-six C of the Crimes Act made an order that a recognizance given by a person or by a surety for him be estreated, the order shall, upon being filed by the Registrar of that Court, be deemed to have the same effect as if the order were a judgment by the Supreme Court in favour of the Commonwealth against the person who has given the security or his surety for the amount for which the person or the surety was bound, and the like proceedings may be taken for the enforcement of the order as if it were such a judgment.

(2) Where the Court of Petty Sessions has under sub-section (5) of section five hundred and fifty-six A of the Crimes Act or under sub-section (8) of section five hundred and fifty-six C of the Crimes Act, made an order that a recognizance given by a person or by a surety for him be estreated, the order shall, upon being filed by the Clerk of the Court of Petty Sessions, be deemed to have the same effect as if it were an order made by the Clerk of Petty Sessions on a complaint by the Commonwealth for recovery of the amount for which the person who has given the recognizance or the surety was bound, and the like proceedings may be taken for the enforcement of the order as if it were an order made on such a complaint.

PART XVI

(2) No plaintiff shall recover in any such action, if a tender of sufficient amends was made before action brought, or if a sufficient sum is paid into Court, on behalf of the defendant, after action brought.

No Court fees to be taken in criminal cases

564. It shall not be lawful to receive any Court fees, for the issuing of process on behalf of a person charged with an offence nor to receive a fee from any such person, for taking a recognizance of bail, or issuing any writ, or recording any appearance, or plea to an indictment, or discharging any recognizance.

Power of Courts to bring prisoners before them

565. Every Court or Judge, for the purposes of any trial or prosecution, shall have power, by order in writing directed to any gaoler, to cause any prisoner to be brought before such Court or Judge, under secure conduct, in order to be tried, or examined, or to give evidence, before such Court or Judge, or before any other Court, or any Magistrate, and immediately after such prisoner's trial, or examination, or his having so given evidence, to be returned to his former custody:

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the power of a Court of Gaol Delivery, sitting for the delivery of a gaol, to cause any prisoner therein to be brought before it for any purpose, without order in writing.

Witnesses neglecting to attend trial and captured under warrant may be admitted to bail

566. Where a person bound by recognizance, or served with a subpoena, to attend as a witness in any Court at a trial, who has failed to appear when called in open Court, either at such trial, or on the day appointed for such trial, has been captured under a warrant issued by such Court, bail may be taken before any Magistrate for his appearance at the trial.

Prosecutions for blasphemy

574. No person shall be liable to prosecution in respect of any publication by him, orally or otherwise, of words or matter charged as blasphemous, where the same is by way of argument, or statement, and not for the purpose of scoffing or reviling, nor of violating public decency, nor in any manner tending to a breach of the peace.

577. In any criminal proceeding, if it is made to appear to the Court—

- (a) that a fair or unprejudiced trial cannot otherwise be had, or
- (b) that for any other reason, it is expedient so to do,
