A1986-52

Republication No 6B

Effective: 12 September 2001 – 26 March 2002

Republication date: 6 February 2008

About this republication

The republished law

This is a republication of the Domestic Violence Act 1986 effective from 12 September 2001 to 26 March 2002.

Kinds of republications

The Parliamentary Counsel's Office prepares 2 kinds of republications of ACT laws (see the ACT legislation register at www.legislation.act.gov.au):

- authorised republications to which the Legislation Act 2001 applies
- unauthorised republications.

The status of this republication appears on the bottom of each page.

Editorial changes

The Legislation (Republication) Act 1996, part 3, division 2 authorised the Parliamentary Counsel to make editorial amendments and other changes of a formal nature when preparing a law for republication. Editorial changes do not change the effect of the law, but have effect as if they had been made by an Act commencing on the republication date (see Legislation (Republication) Act 1996, s 14 and s 16). The changes are made if the Parliamentary Counsel considers they are desirable to bring the law into line, or more closely into line, with current legislative drafting practice.

7. Parties

(1) The person in respect of whom the application is made shall be the respondent to the proceedings.

NOTE: RELATIONSHIP WITH FAMILY LAW ACT

Divisions 10 and 11 of Part 7 of the Family Law Act 1975 of the Commonwealth deal with the relationship between protection orders and contact orders within the meaning of that Part. In particular, section 68J imposes an obligation on certain persons to inform the court of any protection orders or interim protection orders and under section 68S certain persons may apply for a declaration of the extent to which a contact order is inconsistent with a protection order or an interim protection order.

8B. Evidence

(1) Where, in proceedings under this Act, the Court is satisfied that it is appropriate, it may—

- (a) permit evidence to be given orally or in writing otherwise than on oath; and

(b) inform itself on any matter in any manner it thinks fit.

(2) This section does not limit the application of Part XV of the MC (CJ) Act to proceedings under this Act.

9. Restrictions in order

(1) Subject to this Act, a protection order may impose such restraints or conditions on the respondent as the Court is satisfied are necessary or desirable in the circumstances, and may, for example—

- (b) prohibit the respondent from being on premises specified in the order, being premises frequented by the aggrieved person;
- (c) prohibit the respondent from being in a locality specified in the order;
- (d) prohibit the respondent from approaching within a specified distance of the aggrieved person;
- (e) prohibit the respondent from contacting, harassing, threatening or intimidating the aggrieved person;

- (g) where the order contains a prohibition of the kind referred to in paragraph (a)—
 - (i) prohibit the respondent from taking possession of specified personal property, being property that is reasonably needed by the aggrieved person; or

- (h) prohibit the respondent from causing another person to engage in the conduct referred to in paragraph (e) or (f) or subparagraph (g) (i);
- (ha) prohibit the respondent doing any of the things referred to in paragraphs (a) to (f), subparagraph (g) (i) or paragraph (h) in relation to a child of the aggrieved person; or
- (j) specify conditions subject to which the respondent may—

Domestic Violence Act 1986

- (i) be on premises;
- (ii) be in a locality; or
- (iii) approach or contact a person (including a child);
specified in the order.

(2) The Court may make an order that includes a prohibition of the kind referred to in paragraph (1) (a) or (g) notwithstanding any legal or equitable interests the respondent might have in the property comprising the premises or in the property to which the prohibition of the kind referred to in paragraph (1) (g) relates.

10. Matters to be taken into account

(1) In determining an application for a protection order, the Court shall have regard to the following:

- (a) the need to ensure the aggrieved person is protected from domestic violence;

- (c) the accommodation needs of the aggrieved person, the children (if any) of the aggrieved person and the children (if any) of the respondent;
- (d) any hardship that may be caused to the respondent or to any other person as a result of the making of the order;
- (e) where the Court proposes to include in the order a prohibition or direction of the kind referred to in paragraph 9 (1) (g)—the income, assets and liabilities of the respondent and of the aggrieved person (other than an aggrieved person who is a child);
- (ea) whether access between the aggrieved person or the respondent, and any child of either of those persons, is relevant to the making of the order, and to any relevant family contact order of which the Court is aware;
- (eb) if the respondent has previously engaged in conduct that constitutes domestic violence—that conduct;
- (ec) if a protection order has been made in relation to the respondent at any time—particulars of the order;
- (ed) if the respondent has contravened a protection order made in relation to him or her—particulars of the contravention;

- (ee) the need to ensure that property is protected from damage;
- (f) any other matter that, in the circumstances of the case, the Court considers relevant.

(2) In having regard to the matters referred to in subsection (1), the Court shall consider the matters referred to in paragraphs (1) (a) and (b) as being of primary importance.

(3) A failure to have regard to any of the matters mentioned in paragraph (1) (ea) does not affect the validity of a protection order or an order varying a protection order.

(5) In paragraphs (1) (ec) and (ed), a reference to a protection order shall be read as including a reference to an order under a law of a State or another Territory having the same effect or substantially the same effect as a protection order.

10A. Consent orders

The Court may, with the consent of the parties to the proceedings, make any order under this Act without proof or admission that the respondent has engaged in conduct that constitutes domestic violence.

11. Recommendations by the Court

When the Court hears an application under this Act, the Court may recommend that the respondent, the aggrieved person or any other person participate in a program of counselling, training, rehabilitation or assessment of a kind specified by the Court.

12. Service of application

(1) Subject to section 28, the Registrar shall, as soon as practicable after an application for a protection order, or for the variation or revocation of a protection order, has been filed, cause—

- (a) a copy of the application, together with notice of the proceedings in accordance with the form approved under section 35 (Approved forms), to be served personally on the respondent; and
- (b) where the applicant is a police officer—a copy of the application, together with notice of the date on which, and time and place at which, the application is to be heard, to be served personally on the aggrieved person (other than an aggrieved person who is a child).

(2) Where the hearing of an application is adjourned by reason of the fact that the application and the notice of proceedings have not been served on the respondent, the date, time and place stated in the notice of proceedings shall be the date, time and place fixed by the Court for the adjourned hearing.

13. Procedure in absence of respondent

Where—

- (a) notice of the proceedings has been served on the respondent in accordance with this Act; and
- (b) the respondent fails to appear in person at the Court at the time fixed for the hearing of the application;

the Court may—

- (c) proceed to hear and determine the matter in the respondent's absence; or
- (d) where the Court is satisfied, having regard to the material before it, that it is appropriate to do so—adjourn the matter and issue a warrant for the respondent to be apprehended and brought before the Court.

14. Interim orders

(1) Where—

- (a) an application for a protection order or a variation of a protection order has been made in accordance with this Part; and
- (b) the Court is satisfied that it is necessary, in order to ensure the safety of the aggrieved person pending the hearing and determination of the application, to make an interim protection order;

the Court may make an interim protection order whether or not a copy of the application has been served on the respondent.

(2) The Court shall not make an interim protection order unless the application is supported—

- (a) by oral evidence on oath given by the applicant; or
- (b) where the Court is satisfied that it would be unreasonable in the circumstances to require the applicant to give oral evidence—by affidavit evidence given by the applicant.

(2A) In making an interim protection order, the Court shall have regard to whether access between the aggrieved person or the respondent, and any child of either of those persons, is relevant to the making of the order, and to any relevant family contact order of which the Court is aware.

(2B) A failure to have regard to any of the matters mentioned in subsection (2A) does not affect the validity of an interim protection order.

(3) An interim protection order—

- (a) shall restrain the respondent from engaging in the conduct on which the application is based;
- (aa) applies to the respondent's conduct both within and outside the Territory; and
- (b) may prohibit the respondent from being on premises on which the aggrieved person resides; and
- (c) shall not contain any other prohibition or condition specified in section 9 unless the Court is satisfied, by reason of the circumstances of the case, that it is necessary to do so to ensure the safety of the aggrieved person.

(4) The Court may vary or revoke an interim protection order where it is satisfied that it is necessary or desirable having regard to the matters in paragraph (1) (b) and subsection (2A).

14A. Protection orders, interim protection orders—firearms

(1) Where a protection order is made in respect of a person who is the holder of a licence under the Firearms Act 1996, the licence is by force of this section cancelled.

16. Criminal proceedings: hearing of application

The power of the Court to make a protection order or an interim protection order in respect of a person may be exercised notwithstanding that the person has been charged with an offence arising out of the same conduct as that out of which the application for the protection order arose.

17. Duration of order

(1) Unless the Court specifies otherwise in the order, a protection order remains in force for a period of 2 years.

(1A) The Court shall not specify that an order is to remain in force—

- (a) for a period greater than 2 years; or
- (b) until the Court otherwise orders;

unless satisfied that there are special or exceptional circumstances that justify the making of such an order.

(2) Where a protection order contains a prohibition or condition of the kind specified in section 9, the Court may specify different periods, being periods none of which exceeds the period referred to in subsection (1), as the period for which each prohibition or condition is to remain in force.

(3) An interim protection order remains in force for the period, being a period of not more than 21 days, specified in the order.

(3A) The Court shall not specify a period of more than 10 days for the purposes of subsection (3), unless the Court is satisfied that a longer period will be necessary to complete the proceedings and to allow service on the respondent of any protection order, or variation of a protection order, resulting from the proceedings.

(4) Where—

- (a) the Court adjourns the hearing of an application for a protection order; and
- (b) an interim protection order is in force in respect of the respondent;

the Court may, by order, extend the period for which an interim order is to remain in force until the date fixed for the further hearing of the application.

(5) An interim protection order made on an application under section 5 ceases to be in force—

- (a) where a protection order is made on that application and the respondent is present at the time the protection order is made—when the protection order is made;
- (b) where a protection order is made on that application but the respondent is not present at the time the protection order is made—when the protection order is served on the respondent; or
- (c) when the application is dismissed.

17A. Application for extension of order

(1) No later than 21 days before the day on which a protection order is to expire, a person who would have been entitled under section 5 to have applied for the order may lodge with the Registrar a notice requesting an extension of the order.

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), the Court may grant leave to a person to lodge an extension request less than 21 days before the expiration of the original order.

(3) An extension request shall—

NOTES

1. The Domestic Violence Act 1986 as shown in this reprint comprises Act No. 52, 1986 amended as indicated in the Tables below.

Citation of Laws—The Self-Government (Citation of Laws) Act 1989 (No. 21, 1989) altered the citation of most Ordinances so that after Self-Government day they are to be cited as Acts. That Act also affects references in ACT laws to Commonwealth Acts.

2. The Legislation (Republication) Act 1996 (No. 51, 1996) authorises the Parliamentary Counsel in preparing a law for republication, to make certain editorial and other formal amendments in accordance with current legislative drafting practice. Those amendments make no change in the law. Amendments made pursuant to that Act do not appear in the Table of Amendments but details may be obtained on request from the Parliamentary Counsel's Office.
