About this republication

The republished law

This is a republication of the Food Act 1992 effective 20 September 1999 to 29 February 2000.

Kinds of republications

The Parliamentary Counsel's Office prepares 2 kinds of republications of ACT laws (see the ACT legislation register at www.legislation.act.gov.au):

- authorised republications to which the Legislation Act 2001 applies
- unauthorised republications.

The status of this republication appears on the bottom of each page.

Editorial changes

The Legislation (Republication) Act 1996, part 3, division 2 authorised the Parliamentary Counsel to make editorial amendments and other changes of a formal nature when preparing a law for republication. Editorial changes do not change the effect of the law, but have effect as if they had been made by an Act commencing on the republication date (see Legislation (Republication) Act 1996, s 14 and s 16). The changes are made if the Parliamentary Counsel considers they are desirable to bring the law into line, or more closely into line, with current legislative drafting practice.

the Public Health Officer may take sufficient other packages containing food of that kind and mix the food together.

(4) Food mixed in accordance with subsection (3) shall be taken to be a sample for the purposes of this section.

(5) For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), where food is in packages, a sample may be constituted by 1 or more packages.

- (e) the results of the analysis; is evidence of the matters stated in the certificate and of the facts on which they are based.

(2) Subsection (1) only applies if a copy of the certificate was served on the defendant in the proceedings, or on the defendant's legal practitioner on the record of those proceedings, not later than 14 days, or such shorter period as the court orders, before the commencement of the proceedings.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (1), a certificate that purports to be signed by an analyst shall, unless the contrary is proved, be taken to have been signed by the analyst who purports to have signed it.

(4) Subject to subsection (5), where the certificate of an analyst is admitted in evidence in a proceeding, the defendant may require the analyst to be called as a witness for the prosecution and the analyst may be cross-examined as if he or she had given evidence of the matters stated in the certificate.

(5) Subsection (4) does not entitle a person to require the analyst to be called as a witness for the prosecution unless—

(2) This section applies to any proceedings before a court for an offence against this Act or the regulations in respect of any food a sample of which has been taken by a Public Health Officer under this Part where the court is satisfied that the result of the analysis of the part of the sample left with a person referred to in paragraph 69 (2) (c) shows that the food comprised in that part did not contravene the requirements of the Act or the regulations to which the proceedings relate.

(3) The analyst to whom a part of the sample is submitted pursuant to an order under subsection (1) shall—

- (a) make an analysis of the food or supervise the analysis of the food by another person acting under his or her direction;

(4) A certificate transmitted to a court under this section is evidence of the matters stated in the certificate and of the facts on which they are based.

(5) The costs of carrying out such an analysis shall be in the discretion of the court.

(6) If, in a case where an appeal is brought, no order under subsection (1) has been made by the lower court, a reference in this section to a court shall be read as a reference to the appellate court.
