Editorial changes

The Legislation Act 2001, part 11.3 authorises the Parliamentary Counsel to make editorial amendments and other changes of a formal nature when preparing a law for republication. 4 Power to order periodic detention

- (1) A court—
 - (a) which convicts a person of an offence against a law of the Territory; and
 - (b) which, but for the option of making an order under this section, would otherwise sentence the person to a term of imprisonment of not less than 3 months but not more than 24 months;may, instead of sentencing the person to imprisonment, by order—
 - (c) sentence the person to complete such number of detention periods at a detention centre, as the court specifies; and
 - (d) direct that the person be released from custody subject to any order that may be made under section 10 (2).
- (2) The number of detention periods that a person may be required to serve under an order shall be calculated at the rate of 1 detention period for each week of the term of imprisonment to which the person would otherwise have been sentenced.
- (3) An order for periodic detention remains in force until—
 - (a) the relevant detention periods required to be served under the order, or any detention periods by which the order has been extended under section 25, have been served; or
 - (b) the order has been cancelled.

5 Core conditions

The following core conditions shall be included in an order for periodic detention:

- (a) that the offender report to an officer at the relevant detention centre on the date and at the time specified in the order;
- (b) that the offender notify an officer at the detention centre within 48 hours of being charged with an offence in the Territory or elsewhere, while the order is in force;

 - (c) the offender submits himself or herself to a medical examination by a medical practitioner, if so required by the court; and
 - (d) the court has received a pre-sentence report in respect of the offender pursuant to the Crimes Act 1900, part 12.2; and
 - (e) the court has explained to the offender—
 - (i) the effect the proposed order would have; and

- (ii) the consequences of noncompliance with the order and the circumstances in which the offender would be taken to have breached the order; and
 - (iii) that the court has the power under this Act to review the order on the application of the director or the offender; and
- (f) the court is satisfied that the offender consents to undertaking such an order.
- (2) For subsection (1) (a) and (b), the court may have regard to such matters as it considers appropriate, including—

A detainee who is aggrieved—

 - (b) a drug is present in the body of the detainee;

the manager of the centre shall—

- (3) Subsection (2) does not apply in relation to a detainee where the concentration of alcohol in the detainee's blood or the presence of the drug in the detainee's body is due to the detainee taking medication in accordance with the advice of—

- (a) the health of the detainee; or
- (b) any other compassionate grounds; or
- (c) the number of detention periods remaining to be served by the detainee; or the Territory shall not be liable to pay that amount under the Compensation Act but shall pay to the employer so much of that amount as does not exceed the amount payable to the detainee by the employer and the balance (if any) of that amount shall be taken to be compensation payable by the Territory under the Compensation Act to or in respect of the detainee in relation to that firstmentioned period.
