

ACT Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Elected Body election

Statement to a declaration voter

If you are claiming a vote in the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Elected Body election but:

- your name cannot be found on the ACT electoral roll; or
  - your name is incorrectly marked as having been issued with a ballot paper; or
  - your right to vote has been challenged by the liaison officer,
- you are entitled to cast a declaration vote.

Before you can be given a vote you will be asked to complete a declaration vote envelope. Your right to vote will be checked by the ACT Electoral Commission and if required, by the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Elected Body Election Review Panel.

If your name cannot be found on the ACT electoral roll, you will be offered an enrolment form to complete.
