Gaming Machine (Amendment) Bill 2000

Summary

The Gaming Machine (Amendment) Bill 2000 provides for a number of amendments to the Gaming Machine Act 1987 (the Principal Act) to increase the accountability of the ACT club industry. The amendments are summarised as follows:

Compulsory community contributions

The Bill provides for compulsory minimum level of community contributions by club gaming machine licensees from net gaming machine revenue. The level of contribution is initially set at 5% of net gaming machine revenue increasing to 7% over a three year period.

The community contributions must contribute to, or develop or support the social fabric of the Territory or another community. They also may use the community funds to assist sport or other recreational activity conducted in the Territory or with participants predominantly based within the Territory.

Larger clubs to be incorporated under Corporations Law

The proposed amendment increases accountability by providing that all clubs with a gaming machine licence and an annual gross revenue greater than $500,000 be incorporated under Commonwealth Corporations Law. The amendment allows a period of six months from the date of enactment to comply with the new provision. This will place all larger club organisations under the control of the Australian Securities and Investment Commission (ASIC) which is better resourced to undertake the scrutiny of these organisations to protect the general community.

Associated organisations and general membership rules

This amendment is to further enhance the accountability and regulatory obligations that are considered necessary to ensure that clubs are generally operated in accordance with the wishes of its voting members.

The proposed amendment addresses this by removing the anomaly which allows for an associated organisation of a licensed club to have the power to appoint a majority of the directors of the club. This amendment places control of the licensed club in the hands of its voting members and not with an associated organisation.

Penalties for late payment of taxes

This proposed amendment is to remove what is considered to be a severe and unreasonable penalty if a licensee fails to pay monthly gaming machine tax and/or the annual community contribution shortfall tax by the due dates. Currently, where the tax is not paid by the due date the licence immediately ceases to be in force.

The proposed amendment will overcome this situation by deleting section 25A of the Principal Act. In the absence of this penalty provision in the Principal Act the existing provisions under the Taxation Administration Act 1998 (Tax Act) will apply. The Tax Act provides for the imposition of a late payment penalty charge at a specified rate. Notwithstanding, the Gambling and Racing Commission retains the discretionary power to suspend or cancel a licence under the general disciplinary provisions at section 24 of the Principal Act.

Revenue/Cost Implications

The Bill will not result in any additional direct revenue for the ACT Government and the additional administrative costs will be absorbed from within existing resources.
