AUSTRALIAN CAPITAL TERRITORY

Pest Plants and Animals Bill 2005

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

Circulated with the authority of Mr Jon Stanhope MLA,
Minister for the Environment

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

This Explanatory Statement relates to the Pest Plants and Animals Bill 2005 (the Bill) as introduced into the Legislative Assembly.

Overview of the Bill

Pest plants and animals harm the natural environment and have a significant economic impact on natural resource management and agricultural activities. The extent of pest plant and animal infestation in the ACT, and the potential for the introduction of new invasive species is of growing concern.

The purpose of the Bill is to protect the ACT's land and aquatic resources from threats from pest plants and pest animals and to promote a strategic and sustainable approach to pest management.

The Bill establishes a system for declarations of pest plants and pest animals. These declarations may indicate the approach to the management of the pest. For example, a declaration that a plant is a pest plant may state whether that pest plant should be suppressed or contained. A pest plant or pest animal declaration may also declare the pest to be notifiable in which case an occupier of premises must notify the Chief Executive of its presence.

The Bill provides for the development of management plans for declared pest plants and pest animals that set out how the threat will be managed. Directions may be issued to the occupier of premises to eradicate or control pest plants or pest animals consistent with the management plan. Contravention of a pest management direction is established as an offence and where a person has not undertaken something required by a direction, an authorised person may do so at the reasonable cost of the occupier.

The Bill also prohibits the supply of certain pest plants or pest animals, or material contaminated with certain declared pest plants or pest animals. These pest plants or pest animals are declared as prohibited. Furthermore the Bill establishes offences for activities, such as the use of vehicles and machinery contaminated with a prohibited pest plant or animal or the disposal of prohibited pest plants or animals or things contaminated with prohibited pest plants or animals, which would result, or be likely to result, in the spread of prohibited pest plants or pest animals.

This Bill proposes to repeal and replace Part 6, Division 3 of the Land (Planning and Environment) Act 1991.

Provision of strict liability to a specific element of the offence

The Bill includes a number of offences where strict liability applies to a specific element of the offence or to the offence. Section 23 of the Criminal Code provides that if a law that creates an offence provides for strict liability, there are no fault elements for the physical elements of the offence. Essentially, this means that conduct alone is sufficient to make the defendant culpable.

However, if strict liability applies, the defence of mistake of fact is available where the person considered whether or not facts existed and was under a mistaken but reasonable belief about the facts.

Offences incorporating strict liability elements are carefully considered when developing legislation and generally arise in a regulatory context where for reasons such as public safety or protection of the public revenue, the public interest in ensuring that regulatory schemes are observed requires the sanction of criminal penalties. In particular, where a defendant can reasonably be expected, because of his or her professional involvement, to know what the requirements of the law are, the mental, or fault, element can justifiably be excluded. The rationale is that people engaged in the conduct of for example a business of supplying plants, as opposed to members of the general public who purchase plants from a commercial supplier, can be expected to be aware of their duties and obligations. The provisions are drafted so that, if a particular set of circumstances exists, a specified person is guilty of an offence. Unless some knowledge or intention ought be required to commit a particular offence (in which case a specific defence is provided), the defendant's frame of mind at the time is irrelevant.

Revenue/Cost Implications

The legislation will be implemented within existing financial resources.
