Consultant—Green Jobs Scoping Study

The Department of the Environment, Land and Planning is calling for a consultant to undertake a broad scoping study to identify key areas for increasing opportunities for environment-related employment in the ACT ("Green Jobs") This follows a commitment made by the ACT Government in the 1994–95 Budget.

Areas of potential employment may include the development and marketing of environmentally sound technologies, products, processes and practices, the export of environment management skills or expertise, the provision of environmental services to industry, waste management, ecotourism, and training and education in environmental assessment, management and monitoring. Key employment areas identified in the scoping study may become the subject of more detailed investigation during 1995.

It is intended that the ACT's "Green Jobs" initiative will be consistent with the directions set in the Commonwealth Government's White Paper: "Working Nation" and with the work of the Advisory Council on Environmental Employment Opportunities.
